

PLANS COMPLETED FOR FUNERAL OF THOMAS C. NOYES

Services Will Be Held Tomorrow At Church of the Incarnation.

Arrangements for the funeral of Thomas C. Noyes, whose sudden death Wednesday has been the source of grief to a host of friends and a loss to many important organizations of the city, have been completed. Instead of holding the services at the residence of his brother, Frank B. Noyes, as was at first announced, they will be held at the church of the Incarnation, Twelfth and N streets northwest, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock. The reason for the change is that the residence would be unable to accommodate the directors of the Board of Trade, the Washington Baseball Club, the Gridiron Club, and the Temple Lodge of Masons, all of whom will attend the funeral in a body, and many other friends of the dead man.

Frank B. Noyes arrived yesterday from his summer home in Maine. He and Carter B. Keene, master of Temple Lodge, have charge of the arrangements.

The services at the church will be conducted by the Rev. William Talbot Snyder, rector and chaplain of Temple Lodge, F. A. M. At the interment in Rock Creek Cemetery the Blue Lodge services will be performed by Temple Lodge.

The active pallbearers designated by Mr. Keene to escort Temple Lodge are Henry G. Hanford, Leroy W. Horton, Clifford K. Berryman, F. A. Sebring, W. H. Hapley, Louis Addison Dent, Harry C. C. Stiles, and Philander C. Johnson.

The honorary pallbearers will be the following: From the Washington Board of Trade—Arthur C. Moses, first vice president, and E. C. Graham, second vice president.

From the Chamber of Commerce—Capt. James F. Oyster, president, and D. J. Callahan, first vice president.

From the National Press Club—E. Bennett, of the Post, and G. A. Lyon, Jr., of the Star.

From the Gridiron Club—Louis Garthe, of the Baltimore American, president, and N. O. Messenger, of the Star.

From the correspondents of the press—Robert N. Gates, of the Memphis Commercial Appeal.

Other honorary pallbearers, selected from Mr. Noyes's personal friends, are: C. Cannon, Judge Ashley M. Gould, Beale R. Howard, Rudolph Kaufmann, Albert F. Fox, John Joy Edson, E. J. Walsh, Dr. John C. Simpson, and Victor Kaufmann.

Gridironers Mourn
Loss of Valuable
Member of Club

The Gridiron Club of Washington met yesterday in the library of the Willard and adopted the following resolution: "The Gridiron Club records with deep sorrow the death of Thomas Clarence Noyes, which occurred on Wednesday, August 21, 1912, after but four days' illness. Thomas C. Noyes, during his membership in this club, contributed his recognized talents to the success of its undertakings. His lovable personality endeared him to its members, while his ability commanded their respect, and in his death the Gridiron Club suffers a distinct loss."

Resolved, That the secretary communicate a copy of this resolution to the family of our late colleague with sincere sympathy of the club.

The club again commends to the representative as active pallbearer, and Louis Garthe, president of the club, and N. O. Messenger to represent it among the honorary pallbearers.

Chamber of Commerce
Directors Will Attend
Funeral of Tom Noyes

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce today adopted resolutions of sorrow for the death of Thomas C. Noyes. President James F. Oyster and Vice President D. J. Callahan will act as honorary pallbearers representing the Chamber. The board will also attend the funeral in a body. The following expression was unanimously adopted:

"We have heard with deep sorrow of the death of our fellow-member of the Chamber and distinguished citizen, Thomas C. Noyes. Mr. Noyes was a charter member of the Chamber of Commerce, a director during the first three years of its existence, and has always taken a great interest in the commercial life of the city."

Mr. Thomas C. Noyes came from a distinguished ancestry. His father, Crosby S. Noyes, entered upon a great work for the welfare and advancement of the Nation's Capital, and this work has been continued and fully sustained by him whose death we lament today. He was a chosen leader of men, and his loss will not only be deeply felt by the members of this body, but by all of the citizens of the District of Columbia.

"Therefore, be it resolved that we extend our heartfelt sympathy to his family, and that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted to them."

Be it further resolved that the board of directors attend the funeral ceremonies in a body."

Page Starts Long Speech
On Vocational Education

The vocational education bill was discussed at length yesterday by Senator Page of Vermont.

When asked how long he expected to speak, Page said the entire day would probably be consumed. He sought to secure an agreement for the consideration of his bill, but without success. He then announced his intention of speaking without reference to other matters.

THOUSANDS PASS IN SAD REVIEW BEFORE GEN. BOOTH'S BODY

Expected That Before Tomorrow 250,000 Will Have Passed Coffin.

LONDON, Aug. 23.—Thousands upon thousands passed reverently today before the catafalque in Congress Hall in the Clapton district on which, in a plain coffin draped in the Salvation Army's blood and fire flag, the body of the late Gen. William Booth lay in state.

On the coffin lay the dead commander's cap and Bible, and surrounding it was a guard of honor of the generals who served under him. The body was clothed in the Salvation Army uniform. A bank of flowers surrounded the wasted face, with its sunken eyes, hawklike nose and long white beard. The expression it wore was one of perfect peace.

The hall doors were opened at 10 a. m. and at that time the adjoining streets were thronged with people come to pay their last tribute of respect to the greatest evangelist of his time. It is expected that before tomorrow night 250,000 will have passed in review before his coffin.

Memorial Service
For General Booth
By Salvation Army

A special memorial service for Gen. William Booth will be held Sunday night by the Salvation Army at its tent, Fourteenth and G streets northeast. The address will be delivered by Ensign R. B. Goellner, and the music will consist of hymns written by General Booth or by members of his immediate family.

The headquarters of the Salvation Army are now draped in white, that color being the badge of mourning used by the army. As a further mark of respect for the dead commander, all the soldiers will wear a white satin ribbon on their coat sleeve, with the letter "S" stamped in red, until after General Booth's funeral.

It was stated at the headquarters today that no official announcement had reached the army as to General Booth's successor, but that there is no doubt the selection will be Bramwell Booth, as he has done most of his father's work for generations very popular with the army.

Train Hits Motor Party;
Three Killed, Two Hurt

HOWARD CITY, Mich., Aug. 23.—Dr. F. W. Joslin, a Big Rapids dentist, his wife, and their son Howard, four years old, were killed, his mother was probably fatally injured, and his son Burr, eleven years old, was slightly hurt last night when a freight train crashed into their automobile less than a mile from here.

The party had been to Niagara Falls and were motoring home from Detroit. The accident occurred on a three crossing, but no one saw the tragedy.

A special train was sent for and Mrs. Joslin, and her grandson were hurried to a Big Rapids hospital.

Nothing remained of the automobile but a mass of twisted iron.

Two Men Go Broke Finding Meaning of Word "Feeder"

What is a "feeder?" Webster's Unabridged says, "One who gives food and entertainment." Various other appliances of the word are found in mechanics, electricity, and printing, but a rather novel adaptation of that noun was introduced to two Washington newspaper men, who, after having turned in their late reports to the city editor, betook themselves to the bosom of the upper Potomac, there to spend the waning hours of the day in the pastime of canoeing.

When these particular two newspaper men returned to their office, and opening said Webster's Unabridged, found under a subhead, an additional definition of "feeder."

To wit: A fountain, stream, or channel which supplies a canal, lake, or reservoir with water. Neither of them had ever heard of such a thing before that day, but both will remember it forever, for their ignorance on the occasion which is about to be described cost them the startling sum of 50 cents, and a newspaper man seldom knows how to exist as long as two days on that amount.

Scene of Disaster.
Broadwater, in the vicinity of Sycamore Island, is the approximate location of the following event and down along the big stone abutment which has been given the name of Roaring Dam.

Approaching the shore they saw a channel leading from the end of the dam, and still having the desire for exploring naturally enough guided their craft into the stream. On they went, and seeing no sign of a feeder, they let the canoe drift until it had come to a big open gate.

The desire for discovering something beyond overcame them, and they paddled all the harder. The banks were a few feet above the gate, and they slid slightly past the gate. No less than a 100 yards below the gate the canoe, in its careless drifting with the current, glided softly and gracefully into the canal proper.

Lock Keeper Is Peeved.
They were surprised when they found themselves out in the open canal, and were more surprised when their progress was stopped by the gruff reprimand of a panting, exhausted lock keeper who came running down the towpath demanding the reason for their presence in the canal.

"Why, we came down from the river," said the less timid occupant of the canoe, the while pointing in the direction of the "feeder."

"But you have no business coming through the feeder without paying at the gate," urged the keeper of the lock. "It'll cost you 25 cents for passing through that there gate into this canal," he added, "and after this yell before you pass through, so I won't have to come runnin' after you."

"But we don't want to stay in the canal. We didn't mean to come into it, and we want to go back into the river," protested the scribbles, thinking that by retracting their course they might undo necessity of forcing over the two bits.

"Wait, if ye want to go back up the river it'll cost you 50 cents; 25 cents for comin' down the feeder and twenty-five for goin' back."

"Heads I win, tails you lose," remarked the talkative scribble to his partner, in an undertone. "This looks like a hold up game that equals the method adopted by Jesse James. Wonder how much it will cost to stay right where we are?"

"Don't ask him or he will add another two bits," replied the reticent one, and added, let's beat it on down the canal. The old chap can't make us pay it and we can paddle faster than he can run, anyhow."

Fine idea—Much business of spooning the water away from the sides of the canoe. Also, loud yells from the old lockkeeper which attracted the attention

TREASURY CLERKS VEXED WITH ORDER CURTAILING LUNCH

Secretary Forbids Making of Tea or Coffee In Building.

A low but decided murmur of disapproval is prevalent among the clerks in the Treasury Department as a result of an order from Secretary MacVeagh preventing them from preparing tea, coffee, or anything to eat or drink in the Treasury building.

It has been the custom among a great many clerks in this department to bring light lunches with them and at the lunch hour make tea, coffee or cocoa in their offices. Hot water was readily obtainable from the power engines in the basement of the building, and the plan became very popular both because the lunches thus prepared were often preferable to those obtained at cheap restaurants and because it was a matter of considerable saving to the clerks.

No Provisions to Be Stored.
The new order, which is department circular No. 33, prohibits the storing in the building of any tea, coffee, sugar or other similar provisions. It makes it impossible for the clerks to have anything warm at lunch without leaving the building.

The clerks are slow to express their opinions openly, declaring it to be "dangerous."

"It does seem pretty hard, though," said one of them, "that with the cost of living as high as it is we are forced into this additional expense, and it seems entirely unnecessary. Many of us are in the habit of bringing a light lunch with us and keeping a little tea or coffee and sugar here, which we could prepare quickly. In this way we had a very good lunch, which cost practically nothing. Now we are forced to leave the building and pay for something not nearly as good."

Hardship to Women.
"It is not so bad now as it will be in winter," said one. "We have only thirty minutes for lunch and when winter time comes it will be very inconvenient to wrap up and hurry through a lunch at a cheap restaurant. Some of the clerks are old women, and on these it will work an especial hardship."

"I don't understand why tea and coffee and sugar are not sanitary," this one continued, "and I do not understand why these lunchrooms are supposed to be more sanitary than our own selves."

"Another feature," one ventured, "is that the sanitary committee continues to allow male clerks to use tobacco in any form they wish and keeps cuspidors in all the offices. I didn't know before that cuspidors are more sanitary than tea pots."

TELEPHONE PROBE TO BE THOROUGH

Chamber of Commerce Seeks Figures From Fifty Cities.

Information from the commercial bodies of fifty cities relative to telephone service and rates will be sought by the Chamber of Commerce for its telephone inquiry. The Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company will also be requested to give the committee figures respecting cost of operation.

The subcommittee of the law and legislation committee of the Chamber of Commerce appointed to investigate telephone conditions held its first meeting yesterday afternoon and decided to proceed with the inquiry. As soon as the matter is in hand the committee will have another meeting.

DENTIST'S WIFE IS BITTEN BY SNAKE AT GARAGE DOOR

Her Ankle Greatly Swollen and Wound Is Painful, But Not Dangerous.

While in the act of opening a gate to let her husband place his automobile in the garage, Mrs. W. H. Wunder, of 1986 Calvert street, was bitten on the left ankle last night by a large snake.

Her husband, Dr. W. H. Wunder, a dentist, killed the snake with a shovel. It was three feet long, and of a queer stripe and color. Mrs. Wunder was taken in the house, where the wound was cauterized.

Dr. Horace B. Coblenz, of 1432 U street, was called, and found Mrs. Wunder suffering considerably from the effect of the sting. It was stated today, however, that while Mrs. Wunder's ankle is greatly swollen, and the wound quite painful, that it is not serious.

Dr. Wunder and Mrs. Wunder had just returned from a moving picture show where a number of big snakes were on exhibition, but when they got home they little thought a snake would be in the yard. Dr. Wunder carried the snake to a number of places today to find out what kind it was. Some think it of the "spreading adder" species, but the color resembles that of the garter snake.

Wilson's Press Agent
Doesn't Want His Job

CHICAGO, Aug. 23.—Col. Robert Ewing, of Louisiana, who was assigned to direct the publicity work of the Wilson campaign, has gone back to New York. He was to have had charge of the work in the West. Colonel Ewing accepted and came to Chicago on the understanding that the appointment was to be temporary.

When he found he was expected to remain until after the election, he decided to go East, and have a talk with Woodrow Wilson, who had asked him to take the place.

It is believed here that he will not return to the Chicago headquarters.

Countervailing Duty On Exports to Germany

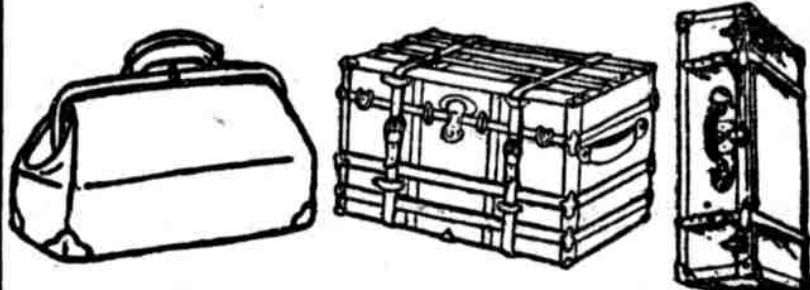

A countervailing duty will be assessed by the United States within thirty days against all exports of split peas, rye flour, and wheat flour, destined to Germany, according to an announcement from the Treasury Department today. It has just been learned through affidavits from shippers that Germany has placed a bounty on all importations of this character from the United States. This bounty amounts to 8.90 marks per 100 kilos, and the countervailing duty will equal this amount. This action was taken under section 6 of the customs regulations that provides a countervailing duty on all exports to a country where a bounty is paid.
